Abortion Clinics Online (ACOL)

In 1995, Ann Rose started Abortion Clinics Online (formerly known GynPages.com) at the beginning of the internet revolution. ACOL was up and running way before even Planned Parenthood or National Abortion Federation (NAF) had sites. At that time, very few people even had access to the internet or E-Mail, and certainly many were skeptical about its possibilities.

Savvy abortion clinic owners and administrators took Ann's word that the internet would work for clinics. She even designed the websites for them and listed the first clinics on the internet.

ACOL online directory proved successful, and every clinic today understands the power and necessity of having a well connected website.

Abortion Clinics Online's first domain was www.gynpages.com. Recently the site was totally revamped and is now www.abortionclinics.com using state of the art technology.

Over the years, ACOL has helped over 400 clinics develop websites and help them be found online. The tradition continues and the following are companion sites: ClinicasDeAborto.com, AbortionClinicPages.com, BirthControlPages.com, and LateAbortion.com.

ACOL's innovative and evolving approach to the internet assures all our clients that their websites will be promoted fairly and clearly on the internet. We continuously strive to improve our online directory, our services, and our commitment to abortion access.
